Anuman Interactive and Chillingo present the final chapter of "Dracula: The path of the dragon" on iPhone and iPod Touch

Montreuil, May 17, 2010. Anuman Interactive and Chillingo release the final chapter of "Dracula: The path of the Dragon" on iPhone and iPod Touch.

After the successful first two chapters that have already been published on the AppStore, Anuman Interactive and Chillingo announce the release of their 3rd and final chapter of "Dracula: The path of the dragon" on iPhone and iPod Touch.

Adapted from a license widely approved by the press, "Dracula: The path of the dragon" allows a player to take on the role of Father Arno Moriani for a 1st person adventure and investigation game that will lead them deep into Transylvania.

The applications for "Dracula: The Path of the Dragon" have been developed for iPhone by the French studio Tetraedge Games and are being distributed worldwide by the British publisher Chillingo.

Alain Milly, Editorial Director at Anuman Interactive, is delighted: "We are happy to see that our 'Dracula' license has found its logical audience on iPhone and iPod Touch. This product has enabled us to test the adaptation of a proper license straight from the Microïds catalog on a mainstream audience. Other licenses will most certainly follow."

For the occasion of the release of this 3rd part, "Dracula: The path of the dragon – Part 1" will be available completely free of charge this weekend (Friday 21 to Sunday 23 included).

The applications "Dracula: The Path of the dragon - Part 1", "Dracula: The Path of the dragon - Part 2", "Dracula: The Path of the dragon - Part 3" are currently available from the global AppStore.
